TOPIC: Implementing the new urban agenda through accelerated actions on active travel

The New Urban Agenda has been agreed and adopted by the international community and now the time has come to implement this collaborative vision for cities worldwide. The document calls for strong leadership and actions in relation to transport systems and design outcomes. To stop global temperatures from rising beyond two degrees celsius, we need to have integrated, collaborative actions and accelerated commitments on active travel (walking, cycling, access to public transport). Let's discuss pathways to enable accelerated actions for a better urban future through active travel together.

Join us for an engaging interdisciplinary urban talk with Michelle Narracott, Executive Director, Strategy Innovation and Customer Experience, Transport Canberra City Services Directorate, ACT Government, as moderator and our experts on the panel:

- Simon Corbell, Former Deputy Chief Minister and Minister for the Environment and Climate Change of the Australian Capital Territory and Adjunct Professor of the University of Canberra, Centre for Urban and Regional Futures, University of Canberra;
- Prof. Rachel Davey, Director of the Health Research Institute at the University of Canberra;
- Gregor H. Mews, Founding Director of Urban Synergies Group and International Urban Planner and Designer;
- Dr. Milica Muminovic, Assistant Professor in Architecture at the University of Canberra;
- Peter Strang, Executive Transport Planning Consultant;
- Mark Wagenbuur, Blog Writer and Videographer about cycling in the Netherlands and is the appointed Dutch Cycling Ambassador.

Participants are encouraged to arrive with public transport, by walking or cycling. Doors open at 5:30pm.
